

Students To Register For Spring Quarter March 2, 3, and 4

Registration for spring quarter will take place March 2, 3 and 4. All students are advised to contact their advisers for appointments prior to the week of Feb. 15-19 during which advisement will take place. Proper timing will facilitate the registration and will give more time for advising.

A registration permit system is again being used and students will find permits in their P.O. box by the morning of Feb. 15. These should then be presented in Room 213 Main for the purpose of obtaining registration materials. They shall also be required at the entrance to the class card distribution center before students may enter. This is again being done to assure that students register in order of classes, that is, from senior through freshman. Seniors and juniors register March 2, sophomores register March 3, and freshmen March 4. Permits will be in different colors to avoid confusion.

For the first time, there will be different final dates for payment of fees for new and old students. Previously registered students will be required to pay fees by March 26, 1954, while new students will be allowed to pay fees on March 29, 1954, without penalty. Usual late fee rules will prevail. Students will not be considered members of the student body after the end of the third week of school unless they have paid fees or have authorization for clearance by the Director of Student Personnel Services, Room 217.

In addition to the usual registration materials an extra-curricular activities form will be completed in which students can indicate participation in student organizations, sports, committees, musical groups, student assistantships and others not strictly of an academic nature.

Sigma Tau Announces Semi-Formal Dance

UMD's newest social fraternity, Sigma Tau Kappa, is planning a semi-formal Recognition dance, Saturday, Feb. 13, in the Medical Arts ballroom.

General chairman of the dance is Bob MacDonald, Duluth. The committee chairmen are Jock Morrison, publicity, and Richard Walsh, decorations.

Dancing will be from 9 to 12 with Mickey Levine's band providing the music. Tickets may be purchased at the booth in first floor Main or from a fraternity member.

Noted Author, Lecturer To Speak On Campus Feb. 5

The Reverend F. Olin Stockwell, author of "With God in Red China," will be in the small dining room of the cafeteria on Monday, Feb. 15, at 1:00 p.m. to talk to students, answer any questions they may have and relate some of his many interesting experiences.

Dr. Stockwell was serving as a Methodist missionary in Chungking, West China, when the Communists entered the city. He could have left in safety, but remained and attempted to continue his work with the Chinese Christians. After a few months he was arrested, put in prison, and forced to submit to Communist indoctrination and purging. While in prison, he wrote the material later published in his book, making his notes on the margin of a book of poetry, which with his New Testament, he was allowed to keep.

Reverend Stockwell's book was a best seller and was published in serial form in a Duluth newspaper last year. His lectures have been heard by crowds of people from coast to coast.

Don Germaine, president of Wesley Foundation, announced that Reverend Stockwell will be free during this coffee hour to answer any questions that students may have, and will also appear that evening at 6:30 p.m. at the First Methodist church.

UMD-Y Club Plans First Event

The above officers of the reorganized UMD-Y club are planning among other things a ski trip to Telemark. Jim Nygard, vice-president, has his skis ready as Roger Nelson, secretary, John Marien, treasurer, and Bill Fayling, president, offer words of advice. These men were recently elected officers for the balance of the year and are spearheading the current membership campaign which is aimed at doubling the present membership. There are now over fifty members although there were only about four active members at any one meeting in the fall quarter.

The club has swung into action rapidly with a team in the intramural basketball league, weekly meetings at 2 o'clock Wednesdays, all sports day at the downtown YMCA, preparations for a float in the Snow Week parade, the ski trip, and a number of service projects. This organization is specifically dedicated to the service of the entire campus community.

Male students desiring to affiliate with the UMD-Y can drop their names, addresses, phone numbers and P.O. box numbers in P.O.'s 754, 1145, 1502, or 886, or leave this information with Mr. Archard in room 213 Main or Mr. Falk in room 215 Main. Or if men desire, they can attend the meetings as listed in the small dining room at the cafeteria.

Woodchopper Ball Draws More Than 50 Couples

More than 100 students danced to the music of the Blue Notes at the Industrial Arts fraternity Woodchoppers' ball, held Feb. 29 at the Medical Arts ballroom.

Highlighting the evening was the traditional drilling contest, in which Elsie Eklund won first prize, a pair of bookends. Ann Carlson and Kenny Miller walked off with the booby prize, two cans of spinach. Jackie Muhonan and Dale Olson won the door prize.

Committees for the sixth annual ball included Lavern Hammer and Dale Fieldseth, publicity; Milo Colich and Kenny Lahti, tickets; Tom Zakula and Leland Gillogly, arrangements.

Leonard Jokinen is the Industrial Arts president. Gordon Voss is group adviser.

SENIORS ATTENTION!

Graduation announcements must be ordered next week, Feb. 8-11, without fail. Money must be paid upon ordering. Announcements are 13 cents each and calling cards are $1.70 for 50 and $2.10 for 100. A desk will be manned in center hall during the following hours:

Monday, Wednesday—9 to 10, 11 to 1, and 3 to 4.
Tuesday, Thursday — 11 to 12.

Sunday Dinner Served Torrance Hall Women

In response to requests from the girls at Torrance hall, a Sunday dinner was served to them last week-end in the cafeteria for the first time this year. Twenty persons were served the meal. In order for this program to continue, a minimum of 20 persons must guarantee that they will eat Sunday dinner at the cafeteria, announced Mrs. Schroeder, cafeteria manager.

A set menu is being offered at $1 per person, including meat, vegetable, salad, dessert, bread and butter, and a beverage.

This experiment in serving meals on Sunday is now being limited to the girls at Torrance, said Mrs. Schroeder, but if it works out, and the volume of business increases, the convenience will be made available to other students living near campus, if they wish.

As it is now, the continuance of the project is on a week-to-week basis. Persons interested in eating Sunday dinner at the cafeteria must sign up for it by Friday noon.

Theatre Guild Sets Date For Winter Presentation

Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord" will be presented by the Theatre Guild February 10, 11, 12 and 13 in Main auditorium. The play, the second to be produced by the guild this year, concerns young lovers and a possessive mother.

The conflicts introduced build up bitterly and furiously. A play of psychological impact, "The Silver Cord" effectively rationalizes the tie Mrs. Phelps experiences with her two sons at birth. She states that it is "wicked" for either of her sons to want to break this tie completely—thusly claiming part of their lives, refusing to realize their illogical devotion to other women.

Marilyn Abalon, a sophomore and veteran of the UMD stage, literally breathes the same air of cunning contempt that Mrs. Phelps feels toward her sons' chosen mates. Almost within the instant, her mood changes to one of sugar-coated sweetness when her sons enter. To round out her complex character, she also "plays" one son against the other in an alternating sequence.

David Wood, playing David, successfully portrays the frustrated young man who feels a deep-seated obligation toward his mother but also society's full-time obligation toward his wife. "On whose side would you stand?" his wife, Christina, questions. In an attempt to stagger down the middle road, he infuriates the scientific-minded Christina with his refusal to "face the facts."

This scene between David and Christina brings out Christina's logical reasoning powers, an effective plea to David's integrity and common sense. Marilyn Eaton, in the role of Christina, realizes the obvious clash her personality must project and does so, irregardless of tact and subtlety—much to the disgust of Mrs. Phelps, David and Rob.

Rob, subordinate in Mrs. Phelps' eyes to David, is mentally confined to the domination of his mother. Nickerson Bailey, as Rob, abides by Mrs. Phelps' wishes regarding his fiancée. And the conflict takes on a more vivid color in its 2-to-3 ratio, add or subtract David, who wavers from side to side.

Unable to subtly fight the intangible hold Mrs. Phelps has on Rob, Hester steps boldly out of her shy character to loudly denounce the scheming Mrs. Phelps. This scene leaves Hester shattered, too shocked to be logical, and too heartbroken to be calmed. Elaine Peterson, as Rob's fiancée, is well suited in this role as a young, trusting fiancée, refusing to recognize the truth about Rob until it is too late.

In the classroom, in the cafeteria, on the bus wherever they go, they carry well-worn scripts, entitled "The Silver Cord" by Sidney Howard. Their intense enthusiasm is focused each night at rehearsal down to the least detail. As time consuming as it may seem the cast of five has put all other interests in the background. Nothing deserves such precise display and control of emotion as this well-seasoned drama.

Sno-Week Preparations Nearing Completion

With the beginning of Sno-Week two weeks away plans of the various activity committees are beginning to take form.

The Lutsen playday comes first on the agenda and deadline time for signing up is Thursday, Feb. 11. Money may be paid at the booth in first floor Main this week. Round trip to Lutsen, skiing and ski-tow facilities and a meal are all included in the $4.75 fee.

There will be skiing, skating and dancing for those going. The bus will leave Main at noon, Friday, Feb. 19, and return at about 2:30 a. m. The Dawn Yawn will take place in the cafeteria then and will be followed by a pancake and sausage breakfast.

Near the end of the eventful week, on Thursday, the Torch Light parade will take place. Two hundred torches have been made this week by the committee and the pledges of Sigma Psi Gamma in preparation of this spectacle.

Chairman LeRoy Johnson reminds club presidents that trophies will be awarded this year. The most humorous, attractive and original floats will receive the cups.

The present plans provide for each float to be escorted by three torch bearers on each side and their Sno-Week queen candidate, if they are sponsoring one, to be riding on the float. February 20 is the deadline for registration of floats.

The paraders will start at Sixth avenue west and proceed to Ninth avenue east. Then they will go to the auditorium in Main for the variety show where the Sno Queen will be presented.

The last day for entering pictures for queen candidates is Feb. 9. Sponsoring organizations are asked to contact Dick Mlodzik for arrangements for pictures.

Gamma Theta Pledges To Begin New Program Of Constructive Initiations

Several important projects have been undertaken by the Gamma Theta Phi pledges as part of the fraternity's modernized initiation plan.

This year, instead of seeing a pledge spotting airplanes with coke bottles in Washburn, he will be doing something constructive—both for the fraternity and community.

Last week the pledges put on a rummage sale and took in about $90 for the fraternity. Part of this will go toward a masquerade party which the pledges are throwing for the brothers.

Tomorrow night (Feb. 6) the fraternity will have its second annual Big Brother day, when each member treats an orphan to a show, then to supper, and finally to the UMD basketball game. This year, unlike last, the pledges are handling the brunt of this.

Another project they are handling is the collecting of books for Japanese students, in connection with Dr. Chamberlin.

The "ruff" will be held on Friday, Feb. 12, and the formal banquet on the following night.

BILL MARR, 1952 FRESHMAN is shown seeking the advice of Dr. Jackson, engineer advisor, during his orientation period. The process has been simplified since then and this year's streamlined program should ease the freshmen dilemma somewhat more.

Campus Yarns by Will Sweney

Snotes: the fact that there's no week like Sno-Week might be changed to there is no Sno-Week if the weather stays this warm. Wanted—beautiful queen candidates to compete in the contest. Bargain—the Lutsen trip, which promises to be a lot of fun for a very reasonable price. Something new—a torchlight parade, a new experiment in the Sno-Week celebration.

A stranger to our campus would probably get the impression that UMD males have discarded the old five-o'clock shadow, in favor of a midnight (or morning after the lost weekend before) shadow, and they would be right in some cases. It is surprising to note the large numbers of UMD males that either cannot grow a beard, or enjoy shaving too much to forego the pleasure.

The school is getting very publication-conscious. More and more organizations are starting publications of their own. LSA has its "Dulutheran"; Newman club has "Newman Notes"; Beta Phi Kappa has "Beta Phi Flashes," and now ROTC has its own publication, "The Sabre." It is my opinion that this is a good move. It shows a healthy interest of a group in its activities, and it serves a vital part in the function of an organization. Congrats!

What happened to the "Singing Marines and Prima Donna" convo? Rumor has it that the Southern Branch, after having heard a concert by that recently reorganized group, decided that it was not good enough to send to UMD. We thank them for being so thoughtful, and hope that they are as considerate in the future. Wonder if this indicates that we are now considered worthy of more than second-class entertainment? Most convos have been excellent, of course, but then we have had our share of poor ones, too. It would be nice if we were to get nothing but the best.

UMD is growing. We have had students from two other continents besides our own, Asia (China, Japan, Viet-Nam) and Europe (Poland, Germany, Latvia). We have also had students from countries as near to us as Canada and as far away as the Philippines. This year we have representatives from another continent, South America. At the present, there are two students here from Colombia—Alberto Pedraza and Alberto "Kiko" Gaitan.

It is good for a school to have students from other countries. It is an education in itself, for though we read many books about other parts of the world—geography, history, customs, thought, we can never get a complete picture until we associate with the people from those countries. It is a very good thing, this exchange of ideas. It helps to broaden our realm of experience and increase our understanding of the world (a mutual benefit we hope!) Some day in the future we will probably get students from Africa and Australia. Maybe even penguins from Antarctica, who knows?

Hash: swimmers are needed for the swimming team. There is a meet coming up soon, and so far there hasn't been enough swimmers, so if you are anxious to make a big splash, join up . . . the UMD-Y is being reorganized. Its basic purpose is fellowship and character building. It is a good club, well worth joining . . . ladder at Torrance still intrigues me. It is too wobbly to be an aid to elopements, and somehow the roof-repair explanation sounds too simple.

A new group is in the process of being organized, a Duluth chapter of the Minnesota Alumnus association. Several old UMD grads, such as Bob Falk and Clarence Anderson, are laying out the plans. Hope that I will be eligible someday.

48 Student Leaders Needed

Remodeled Orientation Promises Future Frosh Easier College Start

By JACKIE ROCCHIO

During his first quarter in college, and particularly during the first two or three days, a freshman student usually finds himself hurrying back and forth in a constant state of confusion, worrying about where to go and what to do next. With no organization or advance instruction, registration would soon become a painful and haphazard experience.

Recognizing this problem, a program of orientation was formed at UMD in 1950. This first program was the result of gradual developments of orientation lectures, playdays, tests and exams since UMD's first year of existence as a branch of the main University in 1947. The basic objective of such a program was to help a student acquire a feeling of belonging to the University by supplying him with a well-rounded program of information, social activities, instruction and participation in group activities. Freshmen of this year will verify to the success of this plan as they recall "get-acquainted" meetings, lively, mixer-type dances and a picnic, in addition to the more prosaic duties of attending lectures, registration, planning programs and examinations.

When a plan was first introduced in 1950, there were 22 freshman groups of 20 students each led by one student leader and a faculty member who assisted in planning programs. This same plan was followed in the next two years, but an effort was made to group students according to vocational interests.

In the fall quarter of this year there were 16 groups of 30 each, led by two student leaders and each student had an opportunity to consult individually with his adviser. This consultation period has proven to be the most successful plan thus far.

A new program is currently being planned for next year by the Orientation committee, headed by Ralph Miller, in co-operation with Bob Falk, co-ordinator of student activities, and Miss Harrison. The committee is composed of three freshmen, Pat Cummings, Clyde Rogers and Alan Nelson, sophomores, Mary Nichols and Alicia Domenicetti, John MacArthur and Janet Nelson, juniors, and Duane Eichholz, senior.

Although this group has been meeting periodically to determine the actual schedule, it has been definitely decided that next year's program will consist of the following changes:

1. Students will have the opportunity to file for positions as group leaders.
2. The freshman groups will function as clubs which will extend into the entire fall quarter.

tend into the entire fall quarter.

3. Out-of-town students will not be separated from other students as in previous years.

4. There will be three student leaders assigned to each of the 16 groups.

"The important phase of this new program," states Mr. Falk, "is the system of filing for student leader positions, and the important part which these students will play in getting freshmen off on the right foot in their college life."

Any student who wishes to file for such a position must meet the following requirements:

1. A sincere desire to assist new students in making adjustments to the University.

2. A willingness to take a short training program in the spring quarter.

3. The time and interest to continue working with the group during the entire fall quarter and to be responsible for sponsoring a specified number of students from the group.

4. A 1.0 average or better academic record.

Forty-eight student leaders are needed, but if more than that file, the selection of leaders and alternates by the Orientation committee will be based on sincerity and ability.

The advantages of becoming a student leader are many; in addition to the satisfaction of giving such assistance, there is the added reward of a worthwhile addition to personnel files and the opportunity for administrative work in such groups. Filing (open to all classes) begins today. Applications may be obtained from Mrs. Haley's office in Washburn, or from Miss Harrison, Miss Lundstrum or Mr. Falk in room 215, Main.

Mr. Falk also recommends that any students with valuable suggestions as to future plans should contact either him or Ralph Miller, since the program is constantly being evaluated to comply with the needs of every incoming student.

Baritone Scores Hit With Concert Patrons

By KATHERINE COUGHLIN

The high standard of Concert Series performances set by pianist David Bar Illan was at least matched at the second event of the 1954 series, heard January 28 in Main auditorium.

Baritone Robert McFerrin displayed more than a considerable amount of technical ability, dramatic interpretation, and stage presence in his program, which included operatic selections, art songs, spirituals, and contemporary music.

One of the highlights of the concert was an aria, "The Creed of Pierre Cauchon," from the contemporary opera, "The Triumph of Joan" by Norman Della Joia. Also memorable was the group of four American songs arranged by Celius Dougherty, to which the singer gave just the right amount of humor and pathos.

A receptive and appreciative audience which almost filled the auditorium listened attentively to the rather lengthy and not-too-light program, and then called McFerrin back for numerous curtain calls and three encores.

For his encores, McFerrin chose two familiar songs, "Water Boy," and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and another, called "Courtship," which he termed "a silly little song."

The audience was conspicuous in its sparse student population, although this might be attributed to the hockey game played the same night.

The singer was ably accompanied on the piano by Norman Johnson.

ANY CHANNEL SWIMMERS?

Meet UMD's Florence Chadwicks . . .

By BARBARA LAIBL

The Aquatics club, an organization open to all members of the Women's Athletic association, is taking advantage of the new UMD pool in the physical education building every Thursday from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. Though the Aquatics club is a new organization, its members have already taken part in the swimming workshop. Other plans of interest scheduled include a spring water pageant, canoeing and water games.

This activity is offered to UMD women because enough expressed a desire to improve their swimming and learn water ballet skills. Let's all take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy swimming under Mrs. Van Steinberg's professional direction.

As adviser of the group, she urges any girl who is interested in swimming to come out and support this new activity. "Skill is not of prime importance as the Aquatics club is a recreational organization," Mrs. Steinberg added.

Present officers of the club are Delores Herold, president; Arlene Salmi, vice-president, and Sue Haskins, secretary.

Other members of the group are Marilyn Hamm, Kay Kietl, Nancy Diers, Peggy Woods, Carmen Kehtel, Pat Jugovich, Sue Rosenberger, Joan Nelson and Pat Haley.

Valentine Party Set By Wesley

To celebrate Valentine's Day, members of Wesley Foundation are planning a supper and square dance combination on Thursday, Feb. 11, at 6:00 p. m.

Merrill Loy, social chairman, is in charge of arrangements, and announced that Mr. Lloyd Yesberger will call the dance.

Team five is responsible for the supper. Members of Virginia Hansen's team are Helen Bromberg, Marge Carlson, Jim Brown, Lee Ellis, Helen Bowes, Barton Skafte, and Gene Simon.

Mnemonic System Key To Knowledge

"The Mnemonic System!" echoed the freshman with a low whistle.

The senior looked into the distance of the afternoon coffee hour, flicked his cigarette ash into the remains of his 7-cent brew, then brought his eyes back sharply upon the reverent yearling.

"Yes!" he hissed darkly for the fifth time. "The Mnemonic System!"

There was empty laughter at the next table. The Queen of Washburn was making time with a forward. Among the rest of the seven-centers in this fun-swept emporium, thought the freshman, none else was so close to the Academic Nirvana.

"The Mnemonic System!" he breathed the last time. It was the last time for sure, because at this point the senior stabbed his butt into the remains of his coffee.

"Look here!" said the senior, "If all you're gonna do is blab 'The Mnemonic System!' all afternoon you can go die."

The yearling's eyes were suddenly violent with terror. "I meant no harm!" he cringed, reaching out a staying hand. "This thing has just got me, that's all, Joshua! To think it got you through three years of this . . . this . . ." The freshman waved his hands futilely, clutching for the right words.

"This terrible maelstrom of scholastic fury!" he finally blurted, remembering what he had read in another freshman's English theme.

The senior was not mollified. "Do you want to buy it or not?" he said flatly.

Again the terror in the tender eyes, the troubled eyes that were learning a whole new world.

"I am only on the miscellaneous payroll!" the freshman cried softly. "Right now they have me removing pigeon signs from Main steps, and there's no telling when that windfall will end."

The senior put the hard look back. "I have others who want to buy it. They aren't giving me this hard luck story. Look, I want to hurry over to the library and get the latest issue of Harper's. If this whole business is going to put you in the emergency student loan office, I say forget it."

"Maybe they'll be able to find an inside job for me," the freshman pleaded. "How-how . . . how much will it cost?"

Five dollars a quarter, coffee whenever I catch you in the cafeteria, make out my registration cards for spring quarter and a ticket to the prom."

It was like Russia giving the works to little Finland. The freshman made a look like a malarial cripple as the hunter is about to discharge the coup de grace. The senior offered the rest of his water.

"You win," the freshman said from somewhere below his left knee. "Here's the five. The rest on demand. What's the system?"

"You use initials and funny names for the key words you want to remember," said the senior immediately, sewing the quinto into his wallet.

"Just like this," he went on. Supposing you wanted to remember that Longfellow wrote 'Hiawatha.' Well, all you have to do is think of something long and fellow. Let's take long first. What do you think of when you think of long?"

"Lectures," said the freshman quickly.

The senior was regaining his humor. "That's good," he chuckled coldly. "All right, make it lectures. Now how about fellow?"

The freshman pondered a moment. "Mellow . . . Because I remember a song in third grade that had something about a mellow fellow."

The senior looked once again into the distance of the afternoon coffee hour. "Well, I guess that will do," he said finally. "Now what do you think of when you think of 'Hiawatha'?"

"Longfellow," said the freshman.

The Queen of Washburn was in rage of laughter over what the forward had just said. He had repeated one of the things the coach had said after the St. John's game. The cafeteria was slowly making like the stands at a 1959 UMD game. For the third time the senior was looking into the distance of the afternoon coffee hour.

Finally the senior took out his wallet, ripped out five and gave it back.

"Son," he said. "With your genius you don't need any system."

CONVO CRITIC

RATING SYSTEM

* Excellent	 Very Good
 Good	* Average

By TED POLLARD

Perhaps it would be a good idea to change this column from "Convo Critic" to audience critic. Convocation committees, both on this campus and in Minneapolis, have gone to considerable time and trouble to set up good programs for us, yet the response is practically nil.

A polished speaker with an interesting topic well put across should have guaranteed active student interest when Leo K. Bishop spoke here this week, but as usual this was not the case. Less than half a hundred people were scattered throughout the auditorium and only half of these were students. With a school enrollment of almost 1,400, the number of disinterested students on our campus is amazingly high.

Few classes are held at eleven on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the "cold auditorium" excuse is not valid any more. Tuesday's topic and those to come should be of interest to everyone and perhaps more students would find that they are interested if they would only try coming. The main branch is making a serious effort to get good programs here but the acceptance of these programs is up to us.

Mr. Bishop, our Tuesday speaker, is the vice-president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and an ordained minister. He must have felt right at home speaking to a very small group that shunned the front rows and scattered as much as possible.

Basing his lecture on the meanings of "scape-goat," "stereotype," and "ethnocentrism," he gave an obviously well thought out and well presented prologue to Brotherhood week. Far from being a "goodie-goodie" sermon, Bishop used reason and logic for his arguments, and made them very acceptable. He was worth hearing and it is too bad that more people could not spare an hour of their time.

Early Music Ensemble
Presents First Concert

Under the direction of Albert G. Hess the Early Music ensemble of UMD presented its first program of the year.

Participating in the show of music and instruments common during the fourteenth through sixteenth centuries were Joel Critzer, Allen Downs, Etta Gil-land, Albert Hess, Jackie Mindlin, and Douglas Overland.

Instruments used include a small harpsichord, forerunner to the modern-day piano; viola de gamba, violin; cittern, banjo or guitar; cornetto, wooden trumpet, hurdy-gurdy, no modern counterpart; recorder, flute; short-neck violin, medieval fiddle; tromba marina, "the nuns' trumpet," about the length of a bass viol.

Translations of foreign language hymns and folk songs were provided by Dr. Albert Tezla, the Rev. Fr. R. Pakiz and Henry S. Drinker.

Clarence Anderson and Roberta Moog designed the program.

Alumni News

During ceremonies held at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, last summer, Navy Ensign Ronald Galineau, son of Mrs. Ruth Galineau of 1001 Tenth avenue east, Duluth, Minnesota, received his commission in the U. S. Navy upon graduation from Officers' Candidate school.

Before reporting for duty to Commander Air Forces, Pacific

Fleet, Ensign Galineau reported to Corpus Christi, Texas, for further training.

Galineau attended the University of Minnesota, Duluth and Minneapolis, prior to entering the Naval Aviation Cadet Program through the U. S. Naval Air Station in Minneapolis.

The presentation was made by Rear Admiral J. P. Whitney, USN, Chief of Naval Air Basic Training.

Two former UMD students recently began eight weeks of basic training at the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Bliss, Texas.

They are Pvt. Donald C. Ames, 3718 East Fourth street, and Pvt. Richard J. Graving, 408 Lakeview, both of Duluth.

Both will spend their first eight weeks of basic training on fundamental infantry subjects as army drill, rifle, machine guns, bazooka, marksmanship and familiarization with army technical subjects. This first phase of training is climaxed with a one-week maneuver in the field.

Upon completion of their first eight weeks cycle, they will either be assigned for further training at Fort Bliss in the techniques of antiaircraft artillery, or they will be transferred to another training center for schooling in some other army skill.

Should they remain at Fort Bliss, their second eight weeks will see them firing light medium antiaircraft weapons at low-flying and high altitude aerial targets on the one-and-one-half million acre Fort Bliss ranges. They also will be expertly trained in the uses of various electronic equipment employed by the AAA-RTC.

Swimming Candidates
Needed For Opening Meet

Plans for a UMD swimming team to participate in the school's first intercollegiate swimming meet March 4, 5 and 6 may not materialize unless more students designate their interest in participating, according to Tom Fierek.

Fierek pointed out that only several students have shown interest and he requested that any students who wish to participate should contact him immediately.

Eddollsmen Gain First Place Tie With Win Over Macalester

By RALPH ROMANO

The hard skating UMD Bulldog hockey team moved into a first place tie with Macalester by defeating the Macs before 1,269 fans at the Duluth Curling club Tuesday evening.

The victory, fifth straight for the Bulldogs, left them with a 5-0 conference record compared to Macalester's 5-2 slate.

The Bulldogs drew first blood at 4:40 of the first period as Bob Boyat, smooth skating UMD defenseman, gave a pass to John Mitchell in front of the Macalester net and UMD led, 1-0.

From that point on the scoring column was dominated by the smooth passing forward line composed of Al Peterson, Al Sisto, Frank Johnson.

Johnson, a hard working left wing, took up a pass from Al Sisto and scored on a good corner shot after 14:38 had elapsed.

The equalizer in the first period as in the rest of the contest was the Macs' goaltender. He turned away 32 shots to 17 for Bulldog Goalie Duane Johnson, who played his usual good game.

The second stanza began as the first ended with the Bulldogs in full command. The UMDites outshot and outplayed the Macs but couldn't score until 7:25 when Frank Johnson garnered his second goal on one of the most beautiful passing plays ever witnessed in a UMD game. Al Sisto and Al Peterson collected assists on the play.

With the Bulldogs leading, 3-0, and a chance for victory slipping from their grasp the Macs struck back. At 8:47 Marsh Nelson scored the initial score and at 12:38 Spong made it 3-2. That's how the second stanza ended.

The Bulldogs started the third period with a new burst of energy as they kept Macalester well bottled up with their pressing play.

Sisto upped the score to 4-2 as he took a pass from Peterson and Ron Scott. A few minutes later, with two Scots in the penalty box, Sisto took the face-off, passed back to Peterson who scored his 11th goal of the season.

Macalester fought back to score another goal in the closing minutes of action. The Scots yanked their goalie with 30 seconds left and a UMD shot at the unguarded net went awry.

Ex-Denfeldites Sparkle In Win Over Scrappy St. John's Sextet

A scrappy St. John's hockey sextet threw a scare at the powerful UMD Bulldogs before bowing 3-1 in an MIAC contest played on the Johnnie rink last Saturday afternoon.

The victory, fourth straight for the Eddollsmen in conference play, moved the Maroon and Gold into a second-place tie with St. Thomas, the other undefeated MIAC club.

A quartet of former Denfeld high school stars shone in the victory. They were Duane Johnson, Bob Boyat, Al Peterson and Al Sisto.

Johnson put on a terrific exhibition of goal tending, turning aside 15 shots in the frantic third period for a total of 30 for the game. Cullen of St. John's made only 15 stops in his stint.

Boyat, the Bulldogs' ace defenseman, played a fine game and contributed the tying goal in the dying minutes of the final stanza. Peterson tallied the winning goal a moment later on a drive to raise his goal total for the season to ten.

Little Al Sisto opened the scoring in the initial period on an assist from Howie Wallene. Sisto also had a hand in the other two counters.

Mike Ruddy, the Johnnies' defenseman, scored the tying goal in the second period on a scrimmage play. The Bulldogs had one man in the penalty box at the time.

Maroon and Gold Face Tough Road Schedule

The UMD hockey team, undefeated in five conference games and tied for first place in the MIAC with Macalester (both teams have ten points even though the Scots have lost twice), take on their toughest loop competition when they play three games in four days.

Pucksters Lose To Michigan Tech

Michigan Tech's Huskies, cellar-dwellers in the Western Conference, narrowly missed defeat at the hands of the revenge-seeking Bulldog pucksters last Thursday, barely scraping out a narrow 2-1 victory. The Eddollsmen dropped all three encounters to Tech.

Tech's Jerry Kestner tallied the game's initial goal at 8:39 of the initial period, but the Bulldogs came back to knot the count at 1-1 when Ron Sjoberg tallied unassisted at 8:06 of the second period.

Four minutes later, Jack Manus fired in the winning score unassisted. The goal came after 12:29 had elapsed.

The Bulldogs fired eight shots at the Tech goal-tender, Harry Taylor, in the final period but were unable to dent the net. The Maroon and Gold put six forwards on the ice in the final 30 seconds in a desperate effort to pull even, but the effort was in vain.

The tilt was marked by rough and rugged play with three players being sent to the penalty box for roughing. The crowd-pleasing Bulldogs, far smaller than the Huskies, kept the fans at the edge of their seats with fast and furious action that created an eruption of applause when Sjoberg scored.

St. Thomas, last year's co-holder of the puck title and presently undefeated this year, will provide the opposition tomorrow on the Tommies outdoor rink, followed by games with Macalester in a return tilt on Monday and Gustavus Adolphus on Tuesday. These two games will also be played on the road.

The Tommies, who have defeated Gustavus, Hamline, St. John's and Macalester, were the only club to defeat the Bulldogs last year, with a 5-1 verdict over the Eddollsmen on their home ice. In their latest outing, in non-loop play, St. Thomas defeated St. Cloud, 8-3.

Macalester and Gustavus are considered formidable opposition, having given the Bulldogs a close battle before losing. The Gusties bowed, 7-3, while the Macs were defeated, 5 to 3, last Tuesday.

The club will be strengthened considerably with the return to action of defenseman John Bymark who has been out of action since the opening Dartmouth game because of ankle injuries.

Coach Gordy Eddolls will probably start the same lineup as in previous games with Duane Johnson in the nets, Ron Scott and Bob Boyat at defense, and Al Sisto, Al Peterson and Frank Johnson in the forward line.

Sports On Parade

by Arne Moilanen

Despite all the misfortune that has befallen the UMD basketball team the battling Bulldogs truly deserve the respect and admiration of the students and Duluth fans alike. The Maroon and Gold could have been the MIAC conference champions, and indeed, the very thought of possible participation in the NIAA at Kansas City was tantalizing, to say the least. But, to use a cliché, the fickle finger of fate dealt the wrong cards.

However, the Bulldogs to date possess a respectable 6-4 conference slate which isn't anything to sneeze at considering. Even though the team suffered two bad routs on the road to St. Thomas and St. Mary's, and a loss, the lone defeat at home so far, incidentally, at the hands of Hamline, the club never has and probably never will give up.

There's a tilt tomorrow night against Macalester, who beat our Bulldogs earlier in the season, 68-60. For some top-notch basketball, be sure to see the game.

ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS

Should UMD award scholarships to its outstanding athletes? This question could, of course, create considerable controversy but it is our opinion that UMD should. Since scholarships are awarded for outstanding academic work in other fields, such as the sciences for example, why not athletics?

In this day and age athletics play a big role in college life. Athletics, particularly at the larger schools, are lucrative sources of revenue. The simple fact remains that talented athletes make winning teams, winning teams draw the fans, the fans create the revenue, and the revenue helps the school. The obvious conclusion then is that athletes are the direct cause for large attendance figures and gate receipts, both of which we're sure all athletic directors appreciate.

It is for this reason that those who do so much for the school should have the opportunity to earn a scholarship.

There should be standards established, however. For example, perhaps an athlete should maintain a C-plus or B average scholastically in order to either qualify for or to maintain the scholarship. Since other scholarships are based on academic standing an athletic scholarship should be no exception.

Once the opportunity for the scholarship is established along with the necessary requirements, it is our feeling that this would go a long way in promoting UMD athletics.

On the other side of the fence, the argument may be that athletics are merely an extra-curricular activity as are countless others and that since these countless others do not lead to scholarships neither should athletics.

But we still ask: What extra curricular activity brings in as much revenue, creates as much prestige and puts the school on the national map as does athletics?

Don't you think that on these grounds that athletes should be awarded scholarships if they meet the academic requirements?

Hockey Continues To Grow At UMD

By RALPH ROMANO

Hockey, the king of winter sports, has finally taken its place beside football and basketball as a major sport at UMD. After observing the crowds at UMD games, it is difficult to believe that six short years ago hockey as a paying sport was but a dream.

In 1948, the year in which UMD became into being, its hockey team was a member of the Duluth Senior league. UMD finished with a respectable record of 10 wins and three losses. From that point on, a steady evolution to finer things began.

The first UMD game to be played at the Curling club was in 1949. The game didn't begin until 10:00 p. m. but Bulldog hockey saw its birth as a part of winter sports activity in this area. During the 1949 season, UMD finished with an undefeated record, winning seven games.

The hockey squad of 1950 was faced with the task of arranging a helter-skelter schedule as the season went on. Games were played on outdoor rinks but even so the team won six of eight games.

A fight for survival took place in 1951 as the pucksters were left without a home game. However, two late-season home games were finally scheduled, both of which were played in the Curling club. The lead story in the Statesman that year contained the following headline: "Happy Pucksters Host to Oles." Over the season, UMD won two and lost five.

Gordy Eddolls, a young man of ability and foresight, took over the coaching reigns in 1952. Eddolls saw the possibilities of hockey at UMD and in his first season guided the Bulldogs to a fairly successful season. During that season, all UMD home games were played in the Curling club.

In 1952-53, the dream was fulfilled. The Bulldogs skated to the co-championship of the MIAC and added to their schedule such outstanding college squads as the University of Minnesota and Michigan Tech. UMD lost both games by good margins, but a step had been taken in the right direction.

Last year, on Dec. 26, 1953, 2,000 fans packed the Duluth Curling club to watch the UMD Bulldogs bow in an overtime session to Dartmouth college in the first hockey game to be played on the newly-installed artificial ice. Hockey had finally arrived.

At this writing, the Bulldogs are tied for first place in the MIAC with Macalester, both clubs having ten points.

This evolution will continue for the dream is not yet complete. Hockey enthusiasts, like Gordy Eddolls, will not rest until our Bulldogs become members of the Western Conference and raise the championship flag over UMD.

SCORERS ARE NOT HEROES

This Is Sportswriting?

By ARNE MOILANEN

The Podunk University Engineers last night, behind the efforts of Guard Craig Kerrigan and Center Danny Bishop, who accounted for 15 assists and 20 rebounds, respectively, registered their tenth consecutive victory of the season, lambasting a good Centerville five, 75-70, on the Engineers' floor.

It was the dynamic play of Kerrigan, known in these parts as the human dynamo (he stands only 5' 3"), that caused the SRO crowd to rave in madness over his brilliant exhibition of ball-handling, dribbling and shooting. In addition to his brilliant assists, Kerrigan grabbed off four rebounds and hit the hoop for four points on two long sensational set shots.

Bishop, the Engineers' 6' 9" center, better known as "Jeff" of the Podunk "Mutt and Jeff" combination, was content to pluck off the rebounds and feed Forward's George Mangrum and Bruce Brayson, who played fairly good ball in racking up 30 and 25 points, respectively. Bishop was credited with 10 assists, and he scored 10 points. The other guard, Cy Westcott, tallied six.

The Engineers, behind the engineering of Kerrigan and the rebounding of Bishop, moved into a 20-18 first quarter advantage. Mangrum added 10 points to the offensive thrust.

Centerville roared back to take a 28-22 lead midway in the second period, but then, Bishop gobbled up a number of defensive rebounds and threw off to Kerrigan, who ran helter-skelter down the floor and bounce passed to Mangrum and Brayson, who tickled the nets for 15 consecutive points for a Podunk 37-28 lead at the half.

Both clubs played on even terms in the third quarter with Podunk holding a 55-50 advantage at the three-quarter mark. Then came the final period in which Centerville took a 68-60 advantage as Kerrigan couldn't buy an assist or Bishop a rebound.

But the Engineers turned on the steam, closing the gap to 70-68 before Kerrigan went on an assist spree to lead his mates to victory.

Bulldogs Score Clean Conference Sweep

Slabsters To Participate In Downhill, Slalom Meet

The UMD ski team, coached by Ward Wells, opens its 1954 competition today and tomorrow in a two-day downhill and slalom meet at Houghton, Michigan. This event, known as the Central Intercollegiate Downhill and Slalom Championship Meet, is one in which the Bulldog slabsters have participated annually.

Ten skiers, divided into two teams, will make the trek, according to Wells. They are Capt. Duane Ramfjord, Gordy Slotness, Carl Schramm, Stuart Benson, all lettermen; and Wally Aunan, Paul Schmidt, Jim Blackwell, Jack Wangenstein, George Bogart, and Don Nygaard. Bogart and Nygaard are also monogram winners.

Wells stated that Ramfjord, Slotness, Schramm, Benson and possibly Aunan will compose the UMD No. 1 team.

Michigan Tech, the host school, is the defending champion. In addition to UMD and Tech, other colleges expected to participate are Carleton, Wisconsin, Marquette, Lawrence, and the University of Minnesota.

The meet, which may be scored on the basis of the lowest combined team time, although there are numerous methods of scoring, will be held on the Ripley Ski Hill, which is located on the Michigan Tech campus.

Wells added that each participant will ski each event once and possibly twice since this meet is a two-day affair.

Last year, in a similar event held in Duluth, the Bulldogs copped first place after the final scoring had been retabulated. Michigan Tech finished second.

UMD has been recognized in the past as the unofficial MIAC ski champion, having finished first a number of times. Official recognition has not been given the Maroon and Gold because MIAC rules state that a majority of the conference schools must participate before a loop champion is declared.

UMD Frosh Defeat Fighter Squadron

Behind at the half, 33-31, the UMD Frosh, led by Lee Baker and Tom Stark, who scored 16 and 17 points, respectively, rallied their forces in the last three minutes to win going away as they whipped the 179th Fighter Squadron, 62-55. It was the Squadron's second loss at the hands of the Freshmen.

With 2:39 remaining in the final period Bill Dille, formerly of Morgan Park, sank two free throws to pull the Airmen within two at 57-55. At that point the Frosh scored five quick points to put the game out of reach.

Stark made good one of two free throws, then seconds later tallied on a fast break to put the Frosh ahead 60-55. A while later Baker took a pass in the hole, faked to his right, then made good a jump shot to end the night's scoring.

It was a close contest all the way with the 179th maintaining the edge throughout most of the first half when they led by two points. The count was knotted many times. Once at 29-all with 2:51 remaining in the second period and another time at 36-all early in the third stanza.

In the third quarter the Frosh outscored the Airmen by four points to lead going into the final period 47-45 mainly on the strength of corner shots by Tom Bjorkman, who ended up with 11 points. Then came the last-minute splurge and a UMD victory.

MEET THE STARS

By JIM COUGHLIN

Without a doubt UMD's greatest success in athletic competition the past few years has been achieved through the efforts of its ski team. No other school in the state can boast a more distinguished array of outstanding performers such as Paul Vesterstein, now ski director at Mond du Lac, the Slotness brothers, Gordy and Arvid, and Carl Schramm.

But aside from this group stands a skier acclaimed the best cross-country man to ride the ski trails for UMD since ace George Hovland. His name is Don Nygaard.

A tall, modest fellow who is very evasive when it comes to questioning him about his success, Don spends the major part of his competitive time excelling in cross-country racing, but also competes in downhill and slalom events.

Last March at Ogden, Utah, Don entered the National Intercollegiate Four-Event Championships and placed seventh among the top skiers assembled from colleges and universities throughout the United States, which included Marvin Crawford of Steamboat Springs, Colorado, who is a member of this year's U. S. team soon to compete in the World Championships to be held in Sweden.

Coming to UMD from Duluth Central Don had established himself as a top flight slabster even before he finished high school. During his sophomore year of 1948 he won firsts at Fort William, Ontario, in the Junior Division and in a meet sponsored by the Chester Park Ski club. Competing in the state high school meet he finished third in Class A.

In 1949 Don returned to Fort William and defended his title successfully, then won top honors in the District Class A Meet before copping first in state competition where he had placed third the year before.

Last year, besides placing high in the NI Four-Event at Ogden, Don won runnerup honors in the annual City Meet (George Hovland was first) and the UMD Invitational.

At present Don is ranked among the top twenty cross-country men in the nation. As a result of this recognition he was asked to compete in the International Federation of Skiers Cross-Country tryouts in New York this winter for a position on the U. S. team, but couldn't be present because of work obligations and lack of funds.

Always in top physical condition, Don's closest friends can't figure out how he does it. One of his buddies commented, "He never seems to train on the trail. As far as I know he has only been out once this winter. I guess he must have a secret training ground."

If that's the case nobody will question his "secret training" if he keeps on winning. As George Bogart, a member of the ski team, put it, "Wait and see. He'll win the first event he enters."

Redmen, Auggies Victims Of UMD Home Floor Jinx

AUGSBURG

ST. MARY'S

The Bulldogs, facing possible defeat at the hands of Augsburg, snapped out of the doldrums in the final period with a 32-point scoring spurt to defeat the St. Paul school, 97-90, Wednesday for their sixth victory in MIAC play.

Forward Bob McDonald swished the nets for 27 points, eight of them coming in the final chapter. Capt. Chuck Hiti hit for 19.

The Isenbargermen were trailing, 66-65, at the three-quarter mark when Jerry Wilmot's fielder put his mates into the lead for good. The Auggies knotted the count with a charity but free throws by McDonald and Mel Koivisto and a two-pointer by Hiti made it 71-67.

Augsburg tied the count again before John McKeag and McDonald boosted the advantage of 75-71. The Auggies narrowed the margin to 75-73 and then the Bulldogs employed a fast-running game to move into an 83-73 advantage. Koivisto dumped in two baskets and McDonald and McKeag one each in the spurt.

UMD clung onto the lead for the remainder of the tilt although the upset-minded Auggies made desperate bids to stage a rally. Tom Stark, a reserve forward, tallied the Bulldogs' final four points.

Augsburg grabbed the lead at the outset of the contest, leading at one point, 10-3, in the initial quarter as the stale Bulldogs were completely off form. UMD spurted, however, to narrow the gap to 21-20 at the end of the period.

McDonald's two-pointer in the opening moments of the second quarter gave UMD a temporary 22-21 lead which the Auggies quickly wiped out. UMD knotted the count several times but fell behind at the half, 48-42. The sharp-shooting McDonald collected nine to keep his mates from falling apart.

UMD finally pulled into a 57-57 tie on Bob Seikkula's basket in the third quarter and into a 61-60 lead with 1:34 remaining as Bruce Paulson chipped in two. Augsburg, however, managed a narrow 66-65 lead at the end of the quarter. The ragged Bulldogs, paced by Hiti's eight points, showed spurts of finesse in that canto but the Auggies hung on doggedly.

Then came the final quarter when UMD, shaking off the effects of listlessness, showed a reversal of form to rally brilliantly.

McKeag pumped in 12 points, Koivisto 11 and the methodical Seikkula and Paulson 9 each.

The hot-shooting Auggies were paced by Wes Bodin with 21, but the ace was Erling Huglen who scored 13 in the final chapter.

Bob McDonald's under-the-basket bucket during a wild melee with only 20 seconds remaining gave the UMD Bulldogs a hair-raising 78-76 victory over St. Mary's last Monday at the fieldhouse. The win avenged a trouncing suffered at the hands of the Redmen last week, and boosted the Isenbargermen into a tie with the Winona school. Both sport 5-4 conference slates.

The Maroon and Gold, trailing 49-45 at the half, after setting the pace 30-24 at the quarter, battled back to knot the count at 65-65 at the end of the third chapter. UMD trailed by as much as eight points, 59-51 and 63-55, during the period, but bounded back with a brilliant 10-point output while holding the Redmen to two to even the count.

The entire club was instrumental in the rally, especially big John McKeag who came to life after crashing to the hardwood during a rebound scuffle. The hard-working Bulldog center not only bucketed four points but he also was a bear on the boards along with Bob Seikkula and McDonald.

UMD took the initiative in the early portion of the final period to grab a lead which read 72-68 at one point before the Redmen, paced by jump-shot artist Pat Costello, tied the score at 74-74. Guard Bill Trail tallied the tying bucket on a set-shot.

McKeag sent the partisan crowd into a frenzy with a two-pointer but Costello calmly pumped in his 23rd point of the night to once again knot the tally. Then came McDonald's winning score.

St. Mary's scored the opening bucket and remained in front until Capt. Chuck Hiti sent his mates into a 21-20 lead on a charity. The revenge-seeking Bulldogs continued the assault, building up a six-point advantage at the quarter. McDonald and Hiti were the big scoring guns, McDonald hitting for ten and Hiti for eight. Seikkula collected six in that canto.

The lead melted rapidly, however, in the second period as the Redmen forged into a 34-33 lead early in the chapter on Bill Skemp's two-pointer. The Bulldogs regained the lead again moments later but fell behind at the half, 49-45.

Then came the third-period spurt and the frenzied finale capped by McDonald's score.

McDonald and Hiti shared scoring honors with 20 points each, followed by Mel Koivisto, McKeag and Seikkula, all of whom hit for 11. Bruce Paulson was rugged under the boards during his stint but was hampered somewhat when he collected his fourth foul in the third period.

Pipers Muzzle Bulldogs

The battling UMD Bulldogs gave the favored Hamline Pipers a stiff first half, leading 38-36 after 20 minutes of play, but succumbed to a Piper second-half drive to lose, 83-70. The loss was the Maroon and Gold's fourth in loop play.

The lead exchanged hands 11 times and was tied in the first half as the Bulldogs were gunning for victory number nine without defeat at home. Bob McDonald hit the hoop for 11 points to pace his mates to the half-time advantage. McDonald scored 13 overall.

Coach Joe Hutton's Pipers bounded back in the early minutes of the third quarter to take the lead which they never relinquished. Hamline built up its lead to 60-52 at the three-quarter mark and continued to pull away in the final quarter as the Bulldogs fouled frequently.

Center Bruce Paulson chalked up 12 points in the last half as he played virtually the entire game, being spelled for short periods by the ailing John McKeag who was bogged by the flu. Paulson captured scoring laurels for the night with 22 points, 12 of them on charity tosses.

Capt. Chuck Hiti was held to only nine points, his lowest total for the season. A dozen points by Mel Koivisto, five each by Bob Seikkula and Jerry Wilmot and two by McKeag rounded out the scoring.

Dave Tschimperle, former All-State high school player from Hopkins, paced the Pipers with 19 counters, followed by Bill Selisker and Dick Donlin with 16 and 15, respectively.
